Madison—Unreported incomes of Wisconsin corporations amounting to $20,205,160 was uncovered by State Tax commission during the past year, resulting in assessment of additional income taxes of $1,689,064.17 against the concerns involved, Judge D. Rosa, member of the commission told the state board of public affairs Wednesday.

Twelve special investigators of the tax commission at an expense to the state of $65,000 added $1,240,191.17 to the regular state income tax, $277,588.20 to the soldiers' bonus fund, $111,903.22 to the soldiers' educational bonus fund and $59,371.41 to the teachers' retirement and insurance fund, Judge Rosa reported.

This amount of revenue was uncovered by an investigation of but 152 out of the 13,000 corporations doing business in the state.

It was pointed out by the tax commissioner, however, that due to operation of the personal property offset in the income tax, the repeal of which is asked by the tax commission nearly $800,000 of the additional tax would not be collected.

The results of the tax commission investigations into corporation income tax reports were laid before the public affairs board by Judge Rosa with the suggestion that it was up to the legislature to determine how deeply it wished the commission to probe further into tax returns. He made no definite request for an added appropriation.

The tax commission for its regular purpose requested an appropriation of $314,000 for each year of the coming biennium. This is an increase of $42,000 over expenditures for the past two years. It was shown that $169,639 or more than half of the commission expenditure is requested for maintaining income tax assessments machinery.

Superior—More than $3,500 was spent by the city of Superior for printing ballots, employment of election board officials and incidental expenses during the primaries and general election just completed, according to an estimate made by M. Overtime paid to election clerks was responsible for the increased cost of the last election, he said. Overtime averaged about $13, according to Heckley some receiving as high as $20 extra and others as low as $5.

Speculators Lay Off; Spud Mart Suffers

Madison—The absence of speculation in potatoes at the various market centers is largely responsible for the present low prices being paid farmers, the Wisconsin state department of markets says in its news letter published Wednesday. Overproduction, it declares, is not the only cause of the price decline.

"The potato deal so far this year is discouraging to the news letter say. Growers are receiving less for their potatoes than they did in the previous low year of 1912, when the average price ranged from 35 to 40 cents a bushel. At the present time farmers are receiving about 35 cents a bushel for United States Grade No. 1 Round Whites delivered in bulk at the warehouse.

"The crop this year is estimated at 133 million bushels which is not as large as the 422 million bushels produced in 1917. The crop of 1917 was marketing throughout the year at higher prices than are now prevailing.

"This can be explained by the fact that because of high prices in 1916 many were willing to speculate and bought heavily during the fall of 1917 and thus made a good market during the shipping season. The farmer benefited greatly by this speculation whereas those who stored stock at good prices lost heavily when forced to sell at low prices in the spring.

"Shipments from Wisconsin up to and including Nov. 10 have amounted to 5,825 cars as compared with 3,172 cars shipped to the same date last year. Farmers are now receiving the average of 35 cents a hundred weight, as compared with $1.25 one year ago. The Chicago price at present ranges 75-85 cents a hundred weight, whereas one year ago Wisconsin sacked U. S. Grade No. 1 Round Whites brought $1.70 and over.

Madison—The University of Wisconsin financial budget requests for the biennium 1923-24 and 1924-25, totaling approximately $6,000,000 annually has just been prepared for submission to the state board of public affairs at its meeting next week before being presented to the state board of public affairs.

The university requests described as "modest," are less in total than those made for the past biennium, but the increased enrollment. Included in the $6,000,000 proposed budget is a building program of approximately $1,000,000 and a revolving fund of over $1,500,000 which is supplied directly by the university and represents no cost to the taxpayers of the state.

No entirely new buildings are asked in the university requests, with the single exception of the proposed men's dormitory which is not definitely urged upon the legislature. Reconstruction of Bascom hall, alteration of Music hall and additions of the chemistry building are the principal construction projects suggested.

ENGLISH FLOCK TO POLLS TODAY

Fight Against Socialist Program Of Laborites Features Election

By Associated Press
London—The electorate of Great Britain swarmed to the polls by the millions Wednesday in England, Scotland, Wales and Ulster to elect the fourth parliament of the reign of King George V. The polls opened at 8 o'clock—an hour earlier than in some big industrial centers—and by 9 o'clock Wednesday night the new house of commons will have been elected. No eleventh hour development has lessened the uncertainty of the results.

The few prophets who predicted a surprise to the public that Premier Bonar Law in his final speech at Glasgow Tuesday discarded his native caution and declared that he had "very considerable confidence" that the electors would give him a working majority on which he can depend.

At the last parliamentary elections it was estimated that only about 60 per cent of the electors went to the polls. Opponents of labor fear that unemployed energy is displayed. Laborites will benefit, since their organization is believed to be very complete. From the unionist newspapers goes up the earnest cry: "Whatever you do, don't vote labor."

Lloyd George too, is strong in his opposition to the laborite program. In an overnight message to the electors he urged them to support candidates who are opposing Socialism as laid down in the manifesto of the Labor party.

A jury in district court which found Kessal guilty assessed a penalty of one day in the penitentiary. If Kessal behaves he will be allowed the regular time off for good conduct which will reduce his sentence to 18 hours, it was stated at the office of the pardon board here.

The penitentiary sentence abrogates Kessal's citizenship rights, which may only be returned by a pardon from the governor.

Madison—The "love bungalow" romance of Frank Lloyd Wright, Chicago architect, whose "soul mate" and her two children were burned to death nine years ago when the pair's home at Hillside, Wis., was destroyed by fire, was ended at Baraboo Wednesday by the grant of a divorce by Judge E. Ray Stevens of the Dane County circuit court.

Voluntary separation from his wife Catherine L. Wright for a period of more than five years, was given as grounds for the termination of the marriage. Mrs. Wright did not contest the action commenced by her husband in his home county.

ARMOUR VISITS CAPITAL; SEE MEAT MERGER

Interview With Officials Stirs
Washington—Capitalist
Is Silent

By Associated Press
Washington—J. Ogden Armour, head of the Chicago packing house of Armour and company, conferred Wednesday with officials of the federal government here regarding the situation in the industry and it was indicated that some announcement of a realignment of the packing interests might be expected shortly.

Mr. Armour visited Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture but neither would discuss the conference afterward or comment on reports that a merger was contemplated between Armour & company and Wilson & company or Armour & company and Morris & company.

At the same time it was said both at the department of justice and the federal trade commission, the two federal agencies which would be interested primarily in any plans for a merger, that so far as known no representative of the packing industry had laid any merger proposal before the government.

After his talk with Secretary Wallace, Mr. Armour went into conference with his advisors at his hotel and inquirers were told that he had nothing to say for the present.

His visit to Washington caused much speculation, however in view of the fact that reports of a contemplated packer merger recently had reached government officials from official sources.

Santiago, Chile—Scarcely a house remains standing in the Valparaiso Valley in northern Chile as the result of the earthquakes and marine disturbance of last week. The full extent of the disaster which centered on the provinces of Atacama and Coquimbo became more fully known Wednesday with the reopening of telegraph communications with north Chile.

In these two provinces the victims number 1,600, so far as is known, but it is expected the number of dead and injured when communications are resumed with many small villages in the interior whose state remains unknown.

Dispatches from LaSerna told of serious damage which earthquakes inflicted in Topo mines. Martial law has been declared at Valparaiso and in Copiapo owing to the looting which bandits have been perpetrating on the distressed population. The bandits are believed to be prisoners who escaped from the jails.

1,000 FARMERS AT GRANGE CONCLAVE

By Associated Press
Whitita, Kan.—More than one thousand delegates and visitors have arrived here for the fifty sixth annual convention of the national grange which opened Wednesday and will continue till November 24.

Problems expected to receive primary consideration by the delegates involve financial legislation, rural credit legislation, a proposal that state and federal taxes be reduced to conform with the ability of farmers to pay and the opposition of the smaller banks to a system of branch banking, according to Ernest McCure, editor of the Kansas Grange monthly.

It is probable that the grange will take some official action as an explanation of its attitude toward the proposed ship subsidy legislation.

Fall Follows Socialist Vote

Dublin—The German cabinet headed by Chancellor Wirth has fallen. The ministerial resignations filed Tuesday night were precipitated by the decision of the United Socialists not to participate in a coalition ministry which included members of the German People's party. But the "friends of Chancellor Wirth" were not obliged to resign the feeling that he had outlived his usefulness and now has become a victim of a policy of indecision and inactivity which found its culmination in the government's failure to make a practical arrangement with the Allied reparations commission during its recent visit to Berlin.

With the assassination of Dr. Rathenau, foreign minister, Wirth lost influence with his cabinet colleagues. As a result the support given his policy of fulfillment diminished day by day. He admitted the collapse of this policy last summer when he announced that the government's slogan had become "read first, then reparations."

LOSSES CONTROL
Foreign criticism of the alleged weakness emanating from London as well as Berlin during the last few days, contributed to undermining the chancellor's position. In the ranks of the Coalition party, his belated espousal of the People's party as a necessary adjunct to the government definitely alienated the support he had been receiving from the Socialists.

Ever since the assassination of Dr. Rathenau, the chancellor has been obsessed with fear for his personal safety. During the last few months a heavy guard of plain clothes men has constantly surrounded him. Chancellor Wirth's effort to extend the government's office to include the German people's party really founded a new unrelenting antagonism of the United Socialists to any participation in a cabinet in which the Sunning-Sireseman group also would be represented.

SOCIALISTS FOR COLLAPSE
The vote which finally precipitated the crisis came Tuesday night. The Socialists in the Reichstag decided against any extension of the coalition to include the party of the industrialists.

Chancellor Wirth had hoped that his new reparations note would constitute the rallying point for an enlargement in the government coalition, especially as it had the approval of the Clericals, Democrats and the peoples parties.

Even the efforts of president Ebert to persuade his party friends to continue in the government have been explained to the newspaper men the reasons for his resignation. Dr. Wirth Wednesday said that since the last note on the reparations commission had been approved by all parties except the Socialists it seemed as if the government would survive.

Madison—The total corn harvest of Wisconsin closely approaches the 1921 record crop, according to report of the Wisconsin crop service. The average yield per acre of both grain and silage is estimated to be slightly less than last year, but the acreage increased by 100,000.

The average yield per acre of corn for grain is estimated at 43.5 bushels and of corn cut for silage 7.5 tons. The increase in acreage is said to be general throughout the state, and, according to the crop reporting service, that corn is taking a greater place in the crop acreage on Wisconsin farms.

A crop of 39,000,000 bushels is the November estimate of Wisconsin potato production. This is a slight increase over the production forecast on Oct. 1. Total production for the state is 54 per cent greater than the 1921 crop with an average yield per acre of 120 bushels.

Wisconsin is reported to have produced a good clover seed crop, with estimated production set at 234,000 bushels. This is 9,000 bushels above the five year average and 40 per cent greater than the crop last year.

A MORAL ISSUE THAT WILL NOT DOWN

Former President Wilson made his first public expression on affairs of government in his Armistice day talk to an assemblage of some 5,000 persons who gathered at his residence to pay tribute to the war executive. He said that that day had "a particular significance for the United States because the United States has remained contented with the armistice and has not moved forward to peace." We had not, he declared, concurred in the establishment of permanent peace because of a "group in the United States senate who preferred personal partisan motives to the honor of their country and the peace of the world. * * * Armistice, as I have said, is a mere negation: it is refraining from force. But peace is a very positive and constructive thing as the world stands nowadays, because it must be brought about by the systematic maintenance of common understanding and by cultivation—not by amiable phrases, but the active cooperation for justice; and justice is a greater thing than any kind of expediency. America has always stood for justice and always will stand for it. Puny persons who are now standing in the way will presently find that their weakness is no match for the strength of a moving providence."

Mr. Wilson, of course, has bitter personal recollections of the incidents surrounding the close of his administration and the defeat of his League of Nations project. His resentment against Senator Lodge is particularly strong. It is quite possible that but for the extreme dislike of Mr. Lodge the former president might have been persuaded to accept the reservations which at one time would have resulted in ratification of the League of Nations and our entrance into it as a member.

But laying these personal feelings aside, we think it is clear, and that it is becoming clearer to the country at large as the days go by, that Mr. Wilson's vision was the large and true vision, and that Mr. Lodge's was the petty and false vision. The vote of 1920 was no more a vote against Mr. Wilson's idealism and his fervent desire to promote world peace than was the election of last Tuesday a vote in favor of the Democratic party. The landslide of 1920 was the expression of a widespread desire for change in domestic policies. It was a protest against Democratic incompetency, against the burdens of the war, much in the same way that last week's reversal was a protest against reaction and in favor of liberalism. No one thing, no one issue, could explain the elections of two years ago and last week.

The major intelligence and conscience of the Republican party was in favor of using America's moral force for the preservation of world peace. All of its great leaders were committed to the idea and even to the League to enforce peace. The war of 1917 was a war to end war and a war to make the world safe for democracy, all the jeering and denials to the contrary notwithstanding. The heart and conscience of America were committed to these tremendous moral principles, and the nation has not changed. The relation of Europe's prostrate state, of its continued internecine strife, to America's failure to interchange the responsibilities in peace that it assumed when it went to war is now perceived by all thinking people. It is not a political question, it is a moral issue. Those who have stood or are now standing in the way of the consummation of the principle for which Mr. Wilson stood as the purpose and outcome of the World war will, to quote his language, "presently find that their weakness is no match for the strength of a moving providence."

MURDER AND CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

To the American Prison Association, at its convention in Detroit, the statement was made by Mr. Henry Barrett Chamberlain, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, that the increase of murder is caused by leniency to criminals. Murder can be minimized by inflicting capital punishment. Fear of punishment is undeniably a more impressive deterrent to crime than love of right is an incentive to do good. Many persons, especially those criminally inclined, avoid wrong because the probability of punishment looms up before them.

After all is said against capital punishment, and there is a great deal, it is not barbarous, as Mr. Chamberlain said, when it is the only alternative to minimizing murder. Deliberate murder is becoming very commonplace, and it looks as if we may have to resort to the extreme penalty to give greater security to human life.

BEER AND LIGHT WINES?

There is no disguising the fact that so far as the wet and dry question was an issue in the elections just held, with one or two exceptions like Ohio, we had a distinctly wet reaction. In Illinois, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, even in Wisconsin, the expression of the people was unmistakably against the Volstead act. Massachusetts refused to adopt a law to strengthen enforcement. Illinois by a great majority voted for light wines and beer, while the election of Governor Edwards of New Jersey to the senate was a thrust by that state at prohibition. Those in control of the government of Wisconsin and its policies lean to the wet side, and they have been overwhelmingly indorsed.

An analysis of the vote on a different basis shows that in the main the Volstead act is unpopular in the cities and the large centers of population, while it is less unpopular in the farming districts. This does not hold good everywhere, but there is a division along this line nevertheless. We do not think in city or country there is any desire to restore the old saloon. That institution as it existed before prohibition went into effect has no friends or defenders.

The time is nearing when modification of the Volstead act will become a live political and congressional issue. Both parties must face it and so must our legislators at Washington. We may say what we please about the beneficial effects of air-tight prohibition in principle, but no fair-minded person will contend that the administration of the Volstead act or the attempted enforcement of bone-dry prohibition has been a success. It has resulted in gigantic corruption, in widespread contempt for law and in the manufacture and consumption of enormous quantities of spirituous liquor of the most poisonous sort.

The question which the American people have to decide is whether it is possible to remove the demoralizing effects of the Volstead act, whether it can be accomplished by retaining that law, or whether it can come only from modifying it and permitting the manufacture and consumption of mild beer. Our own opinion is that if complete prohibition is possible, divested of the vicious effects it has brought about in the experiment thus far undertaken, it can only come from a long process of education. Bone-dry prohibition was too suddenly forced upon those who do not believe in it. That is why it has not been the success that its advocates predicted. Public sentiment largely looks upon the law as an academic fad and does not rally to its support.

The interference with personal choice, with freedom of conscience, habits and modes of living, was altogether too arbitrary. Unless the existing evils of prohibition can be wiped out, and we do not believe they can under present conditions, there is only one sensible thing to do and that is to permit the use of beer. In our judgment public opinion is rapidly coming to this point of view.

NEW MINDS

"New Minds for Old in 12 Weeks" exclaims an ad in the magazine. We don't want to read what under the caption test it is disillusioning. Our old mind has been getting kind of stale lately, and we like to think there's a place in the world where it can be exchanged. How much do you suppose they will allow us for the old one? Somewhat used, and a little tired, but still good for several thousand dollars and dozens of one foot and another.

And what do you suppose they do with the old ones? Do they take them down and clean them up and "rebuild" them and sell them to impetuous souls without any minds of their own, and let money or gumption to buy nice, new, shiny minds with all the working parts guaranteed?—WINONA REPUBLICAN HERALD.

AFTER THE BOIL IS OVER

Our last lesson on boils amounted to a vicious attack on the hallowed flaxseed meal poultice. I condemned the poultice—flaxseed meal or any other homemade or store stuff—on the solid ground of surgical asepsis or cleanliness; poultices furnish the essential conditions for germ multiplication and growth, namely, food, warmth, moisture and exclusion of direct sunlight. The usual effect of the poultice is therefore suppuration (formation of matter or pus), but in the case of a boil that is not very objectionable in itself, since the boil usually suppurates away. The important fact is that the poultice boils in the skin, spreads the infection (the pus producing germs) to other parts of the skin and favors the occurrence of new boils. Many a poor misanthropic fellow has gone blithely to bed with a big meal poultice "drawing" at a boil on the back of his neck, only to wake at 2 A. M. with the poultice sticking valiantly to an embryo boil on his hip.

Well, then, if flaxseed meal is taboo what is a fellow to put on it? Certainly a poultice feels fine on a boil. I can imagine nothing more soothing than about four pounds of hot flaxseed poultice on a tender boil with nothing but a layer of muslin between flaxseed meal and skin. But this is not for the boil victim with an aseptic conscience, because it is so dirty. Now I do know something which will give the patient all the comfort the poultice will give, but which will give neither comfort nor aid to the enemy, and that is a large hot moist gauze compress. This will do everything a poultice can do for the patient but nothing at all for the germs. Two or three yards of cheesecloth wrung out of hot water and applied in a loose bunch upon the boil. And this can be improved upon, too.

The hot water may be rendered safely antiseptic by dissolving in it some boric acid—say a tablespoonful of boric acid to the pint of boiled water. The boric acid will just about take the fight out of any pus germs which find their way into the dressing.

Still further improvement is possible. The dressing may be made to "draw" or more accurately, to "drain" the infection or flow of blood serum, the "drainage" as doctors say, by dissolving in each pint of the boiled water two heaping tablespoonfuls of salt and one level tablespoonful of citrate of soda. Citrate of soda was formerly and still is used in place of lime water or milk of magnesia in the baby's milk. It is the same stuff as that which I have often suggested here for a cough medicine. It would be pretty hard to do any harm with either boric acid or citrate of soda. When the boil discharges the dressing should be changed every few hours (the soiled dressing burned and a fresh compress applied). By covering the moist compress with paper or oiled silk it will keep moist—and comfortable—longer, but some of the solution may be poured on the dressing every few hours to keep it from getting dry.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Religious Mania Abnormal?
Is constant worrying over religious matters and morals a mental disease in the view of the nerve or brain specialist? If so, how can it be treated?—(R. V. W.)

Answer—Your question is too vague to answer definitely. In various forms of insanity, obsessions, delusions or hallucinations on religious subjects are likely to occur.

Fruit Cooked and Raw
We are very fond of all kinds of fruit at our house and I should like to know which is safer, raw or cooked fruit, and which has more iron or more available iron, raw or cooked fruit?—(M. E.)

Answer—For children under five, cooked fruit is preferable. For older children and adults raw fruit is preferable, from all points of view. Well, if Not Now, Then Some Day
I am a lover of walnuts and eat them every day if I can get them. Some people tell me they are very injurious and will cause some vague ill effects later in my life if not now. But they say in fact so bad if I take some salt with the walnuts. Please, relieve my mind about these points.—(Mrs. O. D. L.)

Answer—A pound of walnut meats has the finest and most nutritious meat "skinned" in nutritive value, yielding a good 3000 calories, against say 1500 calories for the juiciest steak. So if you use walnuts as substantial food, and not as a superfluous garnish, rest assured the dire predictions will never come true, and it is a matter of taste whether you should salt your walnuts.

Ovarian Cyst
Can you tell me what causes ovarian cysts? Can anything be done to prevent them? Is operation the only remedy?—(S. M.)

Answer—Cause unknown—except some irregularity in embryonic growth. Operation is the only remedy. (Copyright, National Newspaper Service.)

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

ALLEN METHODS OF FIGHTING KU KLUX

The assault on the Ku Klux Klan by Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas has stirred up criticism in many quarters of the methods he has suggested. There is an apparent unanimity on the part of those editors debating the question that the Klan has no real place in American life. Its masked methods generally are condemned. Some editors compare it to the I. W. W. But Governor Allen's suggestion that its leaders should be deported is considered in some quarters as equally lawless with some of the organization's methods of procedure. The Allen position, is however, expected to start another country-wide movement to regulate the Klan.

At the bottom of religious and racial hatred stirred up recently is no motive higher than power and hatred. The Indianapolis NEWS, "A few men make a comfortable living out of the business and some hypnotize themselves into believing that they are saving the country. Governor Allen rightly sees that a country that has to be saved by a grotesque figure working in the dark had better begin by getting a new doctor. If a few more leaders like Governor Allen drag the question into plain view it will soon take care of itself." But the Albany NEWS directs to know whether Governor Allen plans to "expel" the Klan from Kansas and adds, "we are in sympathy with his feeling in the matter but this business of expelling citizens from a state isn't practicable nor is it fair. Let Governor Allen put down the Klan in his state, not put it out to another state." The Rockford REPUBLICAN likewise takes issue with some of the Governor's statements insisting that "he does not add, what seems obvious, that the tendency to group and mask, and then, when convenient and safe, to kill, is a direct result of group and racial license fostered by politicians and agitators to gain support of various factions. Everything demands a direct representation and power in the United States except old-fashioned Americanism which is attacked secretly and publicly by practically every foreign-minded or selfish faction. The people in most communities either are getting what they want, or lack the intelligence to vote for their principles."

In the opinion of the Boston TRANSCRIPT "the narrow sectarian and racial spirit in our politics should be nipped in the bud, and good Americans will be glad to see a strong personality like Gov. Allen out with his keen pliers to nip it." This is also the view of the Port Huron TIMES HERALD which insists "there is no place in the United States for any masked tribe. This is a civilized country where, as Gov. Allen says, 'every man is entitled to protection in his civil and religious rights.' Anything else is unthinkable. Such an organization as the Ku Klux Klan defies the constitution. It gives the opportunity to wreck personal vengeance through mob rule. The declaration of war against the Klan by Governor Allen ought to furnish food for thought everywhere. Men who encourage racial and religious prejudice against any sect or creed are unworthy of American citizenship." The Governor is to be commended for his actions, in the opinion of the New York TRIBUNE, because "the Ku Klux Klan is powerful in Kansas. Also, no doubt, its motives are patriotic and right. But a civilized government cannot endure if it waits at violence no matter how well meant. By his action toward the Klan Gov. Allen demonstrated afresh that he proposes to live up to his creed no matter whom it hits." Fully accepting this view the New York HERALD adds that "Henry J. Allen is the kind of man, strong in character, strong in sense of responsibility and strong in performance of duty that puts power into public office, commands respect for public service, and sheds lustre on American leadership."

While the "American public is with him in his denunciation of the Klan and the things for which it stands," the Jersey City JERSEY JOURNAL holds that the "country will hesitate before following him on his course of expulsion. Ku Kluxism is bad, but the idea of expelling persons, savages or much of stupidity. There is plenty of current law to reach an organization that makes use of the tar bucket and the whipping post; and, anyway, prison sentences would seem to be harder to bear than expulsion and the liberty that goes with it." The Waterbury REPUBLICAN sees a similarity between the K. K. K. and the I. W. W., despite the fact that "the citizens who belong to the former would be readiest to enter into denunciation of the latter, in fact would be ready to organize a night of terror" to ride the I. W. W. out of town. To make the world right, which means right according to their way of thinking, their idea of procedure is to force compliance by terroristic methods, which means the making of law processes. When we let any organization take the law into its own hands, we must count on myriad other organizations arising to do the same thing; which means that the same foundation of law and order on which our nation is built will be undermined for the fall of the whole thing. And "we are not yet ready for government by hazy men," adds the Hartford TIMES.

Conviction is expressed by the Providence JOURNAL that "the contest just started in Kansas is bound to be country-wide interest. It is a question of the right of many states, and especially of the right of the public officials lack the courage to interfere with its proceedings." Victor Murdoch's Wichita EAGLE, while admitting that if Governor Allen

"succeeds in preventing the parading of masked marauders in Kansas will be doing a valuable public service and if he suppresses tar parties and whipping bees he will be serving law and order," regrets injection of the issue into the recent political campaign. "The fact is," the EAGLE asserts, "that the Klan is a more piece of comic nonsense in Kansas, arising here and there to time stature of a public menace with vicious intentions but little power. It is proper that the Governor should be against it, as he is a law-enforcement officer. But we are not warranted in assuming a fierce fight all alone against a powerful monster. Everybody is against the Klan just as everybody is against measles or cholera."

An even stronger position is that assumed by the Manchester LEADER which, denounces the Klan in unmeasured language declaring that "we are inclined to regard this bunch of fanatics as unfavorably as we are any other crowd—that sets about the establishment of its own law and methods of enforcing law above that of the state. But it strikes us that just about the worst way to try to extirpate a thing of this kind is by process of deportation. Your simply drive the thing deeper under ground and increase its membership. The slower process probably doesn't appeal to the short-cut folk beyond the Mississippi. But it is the winning process. Fight the Ku Klux with fire and it will seize the fire-brand and add to its flames. Fight it with light and in many great times those silly sheets and masks will be only a memory. As it is Governor Allen is helping the Klan."

RUSSIA AND CONTINENTAL EUROPE

Berlin—Discussing the European situation with especial regard to Russia's position, the Editorial director of ZEITUNG, "M. Herriot, on his return from Russia, declared that his mission produced great results. The great obstacle to friendly relations between France and Russia, had been removed by the fact that the Soviet government was disposed to 'recognize pre-war debts. It remains to be seen, however, whether the debts will be recognized without conditions. M. Herriot was full of confidence, and hoped to be able to persuade French public opinion that this promise was sincere. He thought an economic treaty should be made first which would afterwards lead to recognition of Soviet Russia by France."

Until now France has always opposed the recognition of the Soviet government. But it is possible that the situation in the Near East has caused this to change. The understanding between the Soviets and Turkey leads in a certain measure to an understanding between the Soviets and France since the latter has revived her traditional community of interests between herself and Turkey. It is confirmed that the Soviet government really recognizes her pre-war debts, there will be a great opportunity for an understanding with France. Perhaps France hopes that this new understanding will resemble the pre-war Franco-Russian alliance.

"This alliance would, in spirit, be turned against Germany and would constitute for Poland a guarantee and a support. For the time being, no doubt, this evolution is scarcely discerned. But Germany must use great vigilance and shrewdness to prevent this policy from producing economic results. The community of economic interests between Germany and Russia must be taken advantage of. And the Russians must be persuaded that it is in their interests to be on friendly terms with Germany."

"The American newspaperman who interviewed Herriot asked him whether the French radical-socialists shared Poincare's fear of German revenge and for this reason desired an understanding with Russia. Herriot is said to have answered: 'Today Germany is weak, but in the future she will be very dangerous for Germany is less of a Republic than Russia, there are only few real democrats in Germany. In Germany democracy is on the surface, in Russia it goes lower down. In Germany the monarchists who are still the most powerful party in the country, have only changed their uniforms.'"

DETAILS OF NEW AIRCRAFT PLANS

London—The Berlin correspondent of the Daily News says: Fuller details are now available of the grandiose plan for a commercial and passenger airship service between Germany and the United States submitted by the aircraft pioneer, Professor Schuette on Friday to President Ebert, Cabinet Ministers, and various industrial magnates.

As a result of the recently established German-American combination, in which Germany provides the scientific skill and experience, and America the capital, it is proposed to introduce a regular airship service for passengers and goods between Berlin and New York. Accommodation is to be found for 100 passengers, and it is expected that transit will take on an average 60 hours.

Meanwhile the well-known Friedrichshaven airship works have started for the American Government the construction of a Zeppelin, to be delivered in 18 months of time, 225 yards long, and capable of a speed of 100 miles an hour.

The American belief that, as a result of the experience of the R38, built in England, Germany alone is able to build reliable airships, is the flattering explanation here for the United States' order placed at Friedrichshaven.

What Is Radio?

BY B. R. CUMMINGS
Radio Engineer, General Electric Co.

Radio may be defined as: "A system of communication where by intelligence is transmitted with the speed of light in all directions, for any desired distance, without the aid of any artificial medium, by the propagation and detection of electrical disturbances in space."

An analysis of this definition will indicate the unique inherent characteristics of radio which make it serviceable where other systems of communication cannot be applied.

While the speed of transmission in radio is no greater than that of wire communication systems, it is equal to it. A radio message travels at the rate of 186,000 miles per second; more than one million times the speed of sound. A radio message for example which is transmitted in New York is received in San Francisco in less than two one-hundredths of a second. A radio transmitter will radiate its message in all directions, a characteristic which has made broadcasting possible. A broadcast message can be heard by airplanes, by ships at sea, and in mines or other points under the surface of the earth.

So far as we know, radio communication can be effected over any desired distance. Radio stations have already transmitted completely around the world, and since the medium which transmits light to us from stars and planets is the same medium which transmits radio communications, it is reasonable, to believe that a radio message can be propagated thru space for a distance depending only on the amount of power which is put behind it.

The third inherent characteristic of radio, that is, its ability to transmit intelligence without the aid of any artificial medium, places it in a field absolutely its own. Not only does this permit communication with points otherwise inaccessible, such as, for example, aircraft, with ships and to inaccessible spots on land, but it eliminates the need of securing rights of ways for transmission lines and their construction and maintenance. A radio system is, therefore, rendered more positive than wire systems in that it is not subject to the failures which frequently occur during the winter months in wire lines.

While the means utilized in radio differ entirely from those used in other forms of communication it is possible to connect a radio system to a wire system, so that a telephone subscriber, sitting in his home, may talk by wire line to a radio station where his voice is transferred to a radio transmitter, transmitted by radio, and again transferred to a wire system. This fact makes it possible to extend the range of wire telephone systems over areas which were heretofore considered impassable, by including in the wire telephone line a radio link which bridges the previously impassable section.

While a radio communication is broadcast in all directions, it would be desirable for some classes of work to be able to transmit only in one direction.

Senator Marconi, during this recent visit to the United States, made a plea for further investigation into the possibilities of directive radio transmission, whereby the message would be transmitted in one direction only. He pointed out that in his early experiments he had succeeded in transmitting directly over short distances by using a reflector at the transmitting station, where the propagated waves were reflected and concentrated in one direction similar to a beam of light from a searchlight.

It should be remembered that it is not intended that radio communication should replace the wire telephone system. Its use will be restricted to communication between points where wire communication is not possible or applicable. This is due primarily to the fact that the number of radio communications which can be carried on simultaneously in a given area is limited, whereas in wire telephony the number of simultaneous communications, which can be carried on is unlimited.

While directional radio communication is needed in commercial radio work in order that radio can be made to approximate more nearly the directiveness of a wired system, such development will be intended not to replace wired systems, but to eliminate unnecessary interference in areas not lying between transmitting and receiving stations, and to affect power economies in the transmitter itself. It should be remembered that while broadcasting by radio is serviceable in communicating with moving stations and for broadcasting work, commercial radio traffic is usually handled between fixed stations, and it would be desirable to be able to transmit from one to the other without having the message broadcast.

The foregoing has referred briefly to the characteristics of radio communication without touching upon the functioning of the apparatus itself. Many people witnessing for the first time a radio transmitter in operation are disappointed, for there is no visible motion in any of its parts; it is noiseless, and there is no evidence whatever of the phenomena occurring in its various circuits.

In its operation, however, includes a consideration of both the infinite and the infinitesimal; infinitesimal units of electricity, so small that they cannot reflect light, and therefore can never be seen, moving under perfect and complete control of the operator; amplifying the human voice millions of times without distortion and transmitting it thru space with almost infinite speed. In analyzing the phenomena involved and the almost unbelievable future, which is in store for this method of communication, we may probably be forgiven for modifying Morse's memorable message, "What Hath God Wrought?" to "What Hath God not Wrought?"

This means a flow of 1 1/2 cubic feet per minute. The measurement of the miner's inch varies in different districts, but this is the general measurement.
Q. What was the original spelling of the word succotash? C. G. E.
A. The Puritan writers who first described this dish as being "reethed like beans" spelled its Indian name Sukuttanash. Both the principle of the dish and its name are borrowed from the native Indians.

RASEY INSPIRES DADS TO LAUNCH CLUB; GOAL 500

Fathers in Meeting At High School Decide To Work For Interest Of Boys

Fifty "Dads" of Appleton boys who came together at Appleton high school on Tuesday evening to hear Lee C. Rasey, principal of the high school speak, formed the nucleus of a Dads' club of 500 members. The meeting was a part of father-and-son week activities.

Mr. Rasey told the fathers of a Dad's club of 1,500 members in one of the Philadelphia schools and that it was his hope that a club of that kind would be formed in Appleton to see what the fathers could do to help the children to meet their difficulties. After his speech William Kreiss moved that such a club be formed in Appleton at once.

Out of the 50 men present, 37 signed up as members of the club. A committee, with William Kreiss as chairman and A. R. Eads, Paul Hackbert, Charles E. Worby and George Wettengel, as members, was appointed to draw up a constitution. Another meeting will be held soon to adopt the constitution and to plan for reaching 500 or more men in Appleton who have the interests of their children at heart.

In his talk to the fathers, Mr. Rasey pointed to some of the problems of the school in fitting the studies for more than 1,000 children. He was high in his praise of the work of Appleton high school teachers and asked that the parents cooperate with them. He told of outside interests such as moving pictures, automobiles, parties and many other things over which the school has no jurisdiction, but which enter into the lives of the school children and for which the school feels the blame. He told of many instances of problems which are too big to be handled in the school without the aid of the parents.

OSHKOSH 'BOOZE' SELLER GETS JAIL

By Associated Press
Oshkosh—As a result of a second offense in possessing intoxicating liquor, Henry Gorr of this city was given a stiff sentence in Municipal court. The judge not only slapped on a fine of $500 but also ruled that Gorr could not leave the county jail. If he does not pay the fine when he gets out of jail, he will go back behind the bars until that sum is forthcoming. Gorr was arrested in a raid made on several local places licensed to sell only nonintoxicants. One of the places raided by the local police was a shack on Lake Butte DesMorties, not far from the fashionable summer resort of Sunapee. In this shanty, owned by Lee Wagner and Charles Ernest, it is charged, the men were caught in the act of manufacturing moonshine. Two copper stills, two oil stoves, a large quantity of mash and a dozen jugs of moonshine were confiscated. Wagner and Ernest are to be tried on the charge of manufacturing whisky.

BLACK CREEK FARM HOUSE DESTROYED

Fire Breaks Out In Kitchen
Floor—Furniture Is Saved

Fire starting underneath a kitchen range destroyed the farm home of Adam Webber, two miles northwest of the village of Black Creek Tuesday afternoon. The building was owned by John Kessler who rented the farm to Mr. Webber. The loss is partially covered by insurance. Mr. Kessler said he will rebuild the house at once. Mrs. Kessler was seated in the kitchen putting on her shoes when the fire suddenly broke through the floor near her. She telephoned to Black Creek for help but the blaze had made such headway that the building could not be saved. All of the furniture was removed, however, and even some of the windows were taken out before the heat destroyed them.

MONKEY FUR

You can well be glad there is to be no shortage of monkeys when you realize the decorative qualities of their fur, as produced in this chic Parisian costume.

To a bizarre costume of black and gold brocade is added not only cuffs and collar of monkey fur, but a hat profusely and effectively laden with it.

Many designers have tried to bring about the downfall of the straight-line costume, but nothing supplants it in the esteem of the well-dressed woman.

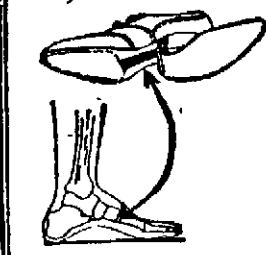

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backache or Have Bladder Trouble

Too much meat may form uric acid, which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Big meat eaters can flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like they relieve the bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poison, else they may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad they have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's uric waste get about four ounces of Jid Salts from any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jid Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

"Patterns In the Sand"

Before Penn arrived at what was to be Philadelphia, he sent orders to Colonel Markham to have a house ready for him. "Pitch my house," he wrote, "in the middle of the town, facing the river."

Pretentious as it was, Penn enjoyed few of the comforts which today are deemed necessities. Save for a layer of sand, the floors were bare—decorative "warmth" being attempted in fanciful curlicues traced with a pointed stick.

How far America has progressed in this particular we are demonstrating each day in our Rug Department. Come see how the master craftsmen, Hardwick & Magee Co., Philadelphia, have skillfully blended varicolored tufts of yarn in beautiful floor coverings. Ask to see our splendid assortment of

Official Canvass Of Votes Gives Schneider 4,477 Lead In County

Hantschell's Plurality Over Kamps Is 3,199—Blaine Re- ceives More Votes Than La Follette.

Fred R. Zimmerman, candidate for secretary of state, received the highest plurality in the county of all state candidates, according to the official canvass of the county vote at the general elections just completed.

Although Gov. Blaine's majority was in excess of that of Senator La Follette, more votes were cast for senator than for governor. The greatest number of votes cast were those for congressman, indicating that where some voters forgot to vote for senator or governor, they did not neglect to mark their vote for congressman.

Albert G. Koch, register of deeds, leads all other county vote getters with a total vote of 11,533, with no opposition. Prohibitionists in the county allotted 496 votes for governor, although their own candidate for lieutenant governor received 870 votes. The highest socialist vote in the county was 130.

With the report on the vote for the three constitutional amendments complete except in the case of the first precinct, Second ward, it appears that the amendment permitting jury decisions by a five-sixths vote of the members was the only one to carry in the county. The amendment permitting sheriffs to succeed themselves and that allowing cities to increase their bonded indebtedness for purchase of utilities being lost. The latter was voted down 3 to 1.

Following is the total vote cast for each candidate:

REPUBLICAN
Governor—Blaine, 10,910; lieutenant governor—Comings, 10,235; secretary of state—Zimmerman, 10,624; treasurer—Levitan, 10,443; attorney general—Ekern, 10,327; United States senator—La Follette, 10,461; congressman—Schneider, 8,936; assemblyman—Schimpf, 5,890; Miller, 4,855; county clerk—Kamps, 5,024; treasurer—Ziegenhagen, 11,241; sheriff—Zuehlke, 10,533; coroner, Ellsworth, 11,078; clerk of court—Shannon, 11,489; district attorney—Lonsdorf, 11,371; register of deeds—Koch, 11,535; surveyor—Charlesworth, 11,178.

FURS AND MYSTERY

By A. CARSTENSEN

A fur bearing animal which runs the muskrat a good second for diversity of service and durability is the marmot, a little burrowing fellow of northern Europe.

When alive its color is grey blended with yellow on the back and sides and greyish-brown on the balance of the body. Along in the latter part of September it seeks its home in the earth and from then on till Spring it is "not in" to visitors.

The discovery of the marmot as a fur apparel possibility gave to people of moderate means the opportunity to obtain a handsome, lustrous durable fur. For the fur manufacturer by treatment and dyeing, brought forth the marmot skin so close in resemblance to the mink, even to the extent of producing the brilliancy of the December and January caught mink, that detection is difficult except by the experienced handler of furs. It is also used as a substitute for Jap mink.

As I have said before, imitation furs when sold as such are honest business transactions which no one deprecates but it is well to protect yourself against substitution by requesting a written guarantee that the article you purchase is just what the ticket attached calls for.

At a fur sale in St. Louis not long ago, twenty-six thousand house cat skins were offered. Are you sure that you would know old Tabby's skin if it were dressed in another color and name?

Beware of the wolf in sheep's clothing!

ON THE SCREEN

WM. FOX "MONTE CRISTO"

HISTORICALLY CORRECT
Little does an audience think while engaged by the scenic beauties of a picture that is being unrolled before it of the tremendous cost in time, work and in money which may have been necessary to reproduce a single set of the picture, and which in all probability remains upon the screen only a very short period of time, say possibly one or two minutes. Extensive and painstaking search work, extending over a period of several months are sometimes necessary; as was the case in the filming of that wonderful picture "Monte Cristo," adapted from Alexandre Dumas' famous story, and which is now playing at the Elite Theatre. Dumas wasted very little time with detailed description of commonplace scenes. Thus, when Emmett J. Flynn, the director, desired to depict detailed and accurate descriptions of people and places of the France of the time of the story, he had to look elsewhere to get atmosphere and color. The public libraries were of little help, and it was necessary to journey to New Orleans to get aid of the Circulo Francaise, whose wonderful collection of rare French etchings and prints made it possible to faithfully reproduce and visualize for the screen the France of the eighteenth century as it really existed, really appeared, and as it really lived at the time Dumas so vividly transferred it to paper.

Reader Is Fastidious In His Choice Of Magazines

The Ladies Home Journal, Woman's Home Companion and Pictorial Review are probably the most popular magazines on the market as far as the women are concerned. They are good magazines inasmuch as they contain not only stories but household hints, suggestions for dressmaking, ideas for parties, methods and recipes for canning and cooking. Good Housekeeping and McCall's are in nearly as great a demand. The largest sale of movie magazines is among women and girls, especially for Photo Play, Motion Pictures and Classic. The Arrow seems to be a favorite for story readers. Although women appear to be buying more magazines than men, the latter in most cases choose a high class periodical for their regular purchases. The sportsman chooses Outer Recreation and Field and Stream and the radio fan takes Radio News, Radio Broadcast, Radio Digest and Radio Instructor. Popular Mechanics, Review of Reviews, Current History and Saturday Evening Post are other numbers which have their regular customers. Love Story and Detective are the most popular story magazines with the men. Several periodicals which are in demand by both the men and the women are American, Red Book and Life. At present Physical Culture has been selling in great numbers, with buyers watching impatiently for the arrival of each new issue.

KELLER AT MARINETTE FOR ARMISTICE ADDRESS

Attorney L. Hugo Keller was the speaker at the Armistice day banquet at Marinette Saturday noon, attended by about 250 veterans of the World war. He urged support of good government, predicted passage of the adjusted compensation act at the next session of congress, and urged support for the American Legion as the one organization that is working wholly for the interests of the soldier.

The Evidence of a Better Understanding

THE last four years have marked the growth of a better understanding between the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and the public it serves. This better understanding is evidenced by the fact that four years ago there were but 4623 stockholders on the books, whereas today the number has increased to 26,560.

Misunderstanding necessarily disappears when people are frank. In the last four years the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has published in a frank and open manner a vast amount of important news concerning its methods of refining and distributing petroleum products. It has explained the factors upon which prices are based; it has given figures which explain why the demand for its products, and especially for gasoline, is continually increasing; and by its frankness the Company has prospered.

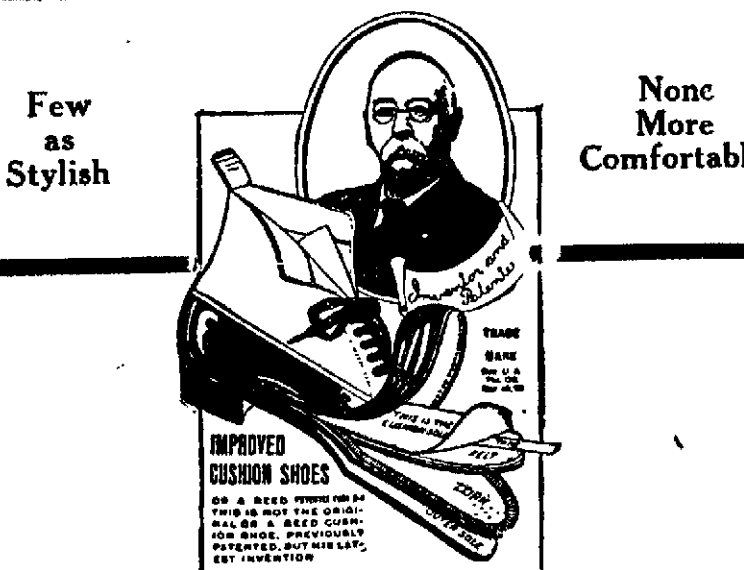

The efficient and economical refining and distribution of petroleum products is a highly specialized business requiring years to develop. The very permanency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a dominant factor in the high quality of its service. Because of this permanency the management of the Company has been able to mature and carry out plans for service which required long periods of time and great sums of money to accomplish.

In its efforts to provide a perfect service, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has developed a constructive and comprehensive Industrial Relations Plan to promote harmonious relations between the management and employee. This program includes adequate retirement annuities, modern safety devices, continually improved working conditions, and a practical plan whereby employees are enabled to accumulate savings and invest them.

This program tends to make all employees better citizens and better workers, vitally interested in serving the public.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) believes in fair dealing toward all, the public, its customers, its competitors, and its employees.

SPIED TODAY

Contributors to "I Spied Today" again are urged to be more specific in giving details in their items. When automobiles figure in accidents the stories are worth much more if the license numbers of automobiles are given. Hundreds of good items are discarded because they are lacking in detail. A pass good for two tickets to the Elite theatre are given for each item printed in "I Spied Today."

LOPSIDED LOAD
As I went down town the other day, I spied a woman pushing a baby carriage with two children in it. Suddenly one of the wheels fell off and she had to take this wheel put it in the baby carriage and shove along on three heels. To make the matter worse one child leaned continually on the side where the wheel was off to look at it and the poor woman had all she could do to hold the baby carriage up.

JUST A LITTLE DIVERSION
A day or two ago while some men were working near our home on Lawrence-st. one of their horses fell and rolled down a hill, landing on its back. The animal wouldn't get up so ropes were tied to it and it was pulled up, requiring eight men and another horse to do the work. When the fallen horse got back on its feet it went to work as if nothing had happened.

TOO DRUNK TO CARE
A few nights ago while we were riding in a car, we saw two machines ahead of us. When we came to pass them there was only one. Suspecting something was wrong we looked in the ditch. There we saw one car turned bottom side up. Crawling out from underneath was a man so "loaded" with the forbidden drink that he was totally unconscious of the peril he had just passed through. He, with the help of the occupants of another car, righted his coupe and set him on his way. He appeared none the worse for wear, whistling merrily as he drove away, happily unconscious of the danger he had just passed through.

PUSH TRUCK ON SIDEWALK
I saw a collision of two Fords on the corner of Washington and Morrison-sts. One was a touring car and the other a light Ford truck. The touring car was going west on Washington-st and the truck south on Morrison-st. The touring car pushed the truck up on the sidewalk in front of the Meyer Press. The only damage was a bent fender on the touring car.

CITY HAS SEVEN CONTAGIOUS CASES

A small epidemic of pythemia exists in the Fifth ward. There are now four cases of that disease in Appleton the last one having been reported a few days ago. They are located on Gilmore, Mason, Elsie and Harris-sts. There are also three cases of scarlet fever in the city, as reported to the health officer. They are on Fox, Randall and Packard-sts. A case of typhoid fever was released last week. There is no other contagion except a few cases of whooping cough.

GOVERNOR FREES WOMAN CRUEL TO STEP-CHILDREN

By Associated Press
Madison—Sophie Stokolowski, Milwaukee, who was sentenced to one year in prison for severely beating her step-children, was granted a conditional pardon by Governor J. J. Blaine. The woman is released under the same conditions that apply to paroled prisoners. She had been convicted on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm. A conditional pardon was also granted Charles Pierce of Dane co convicted on May 25 this year of forgery and sentenced to a year in prison. Pierce is freed in order that he may support his wife and children who are said to be destitute. Arthur Bruwer, Milwaukee, serving 35 years on conviction for a statutory offense, was denied a pardon by the governor.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jackson and son Beverly and Miss Clara Kuehe of Milwaukee spent the weekend with relatives in Appleton.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have
Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color. These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

DIDN'T WANT HELP
Monday afternoon while returning from Darboy a Maxwell car sped past me at a terrific rate. The road was wet and the Maxwell began skidding and finally overturned. The driver was pinned underneath the car and as I stopped to offer assistance, I saw he was intoxicated and fluently speaking in a vulgar language. I tried to pull him out but he cursed me and threatened to do much harm if I would succeed in my attempt to free him. Without another word, I drove away.

DIDN'T NEED EM FOR ICE CREAM
While in an ice cream parlor Tuesday afternoon, I noticed two ladies laughing very hard, when one of them accidentally let her false teeth drop on the table, causing much amusement to the onlookers. Blushingly she recovered her property, and the two ladies hastily left the store.

ANOTHER "BOO-GANG"
Monday night about eight o'clock I saw some boys running up North Division-st, each carrying a handful of stones. They threw the stones on a porch. One boy broke a window, ran down a different street and disappeared around the corner.

CLOSE CALL FOR BABY
While in our North Division-st Monday noon I noticed a girl of about 10 pulling a buggy up the steps in which there was a small baby. She called to her mother to open the door, but as she received no response, applied the brake to the buggy and turned around to open the door. There was a slope to the porch and the brake evidently wasn't much good as the buggy started to roll slowly towards the steps. A man across the street noticed it and came running, catching the buggy just as the front wheels started over the edge of the porch. The mother, who just then came around the corner of the house was too frightened to move.

Laxatives Replaced
By the Use of Nujol
Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot gripe. When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it. Try it today.

Nujol
A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

A GOOD SPORT
A woman sitting in front of me at a movie Friday evening wore a long string of beads, which suddenly broke without warning, and one by one, with a great clatter, struck the seat and rolled to the floor. Of course everyone with a hearing smiled or tilted audibly and looked at the woman to see how she would meet the embarrassing situation. But she surely was a good sport. No doubt she was embarrassed to be the cause of diverting attention from the picture, but never, by so much as a flicker of an eyelash or a change of expression, did she admit that she was conscious that anything unusual was occurring, although the beads continued their noisy tapping for several minutes.

HEIGHT OF CARELESSNESS
Tuesday, as I was at Kaukauna, I saw a man filling a Standard oil truck with gasoline. The man was smoking a cigarette, and thoughtlessly threw it on the ground. Immediately, the hose and the bottom of the truck caught fire and for a while it blazed fiercely. The fire department was called and the flames were soon extinguished.

A SAFE PLACE
Yesterday while in Gmeiner's candy shop a little boy who had bought some candy took off his shoe, took out his money and gave it to the clerk.

DAY DREAMING
The other day while I was shopping in one of our large department stores I saw a lady who was about to leave the store heading for the door. Her eyes and mind were everywhere but where they should have been and instead of opening the door leading to the street she opened a door which led to the show window. Before she "came to," she found herself standing in the window. There were many laughs.

A COLLISION
On College-ave, between Appleton and Superior-sts. Saturday night I saw a car backing away from the curb. Suddenly I heard a crash and I saw that the car had collided with a machine that was passing. The only noticeable damage was a broken fender.

TOO GOOD NATURED
A Buick car bearing an Illinois license was turning on Freedom rd from Second-ave and bumped into a Ford car standing nearly in the middle of the road. It looked as if nothing serious had happened and the owner of the Ford did not take the other man's license. After trying to crank the car he found that his gas tank was punctured. By this time the Buick car was far away and he was without the man's license and money for damages.

RADIO NEWS

The far reaching ideas of Nikola Tesla, famous electrical engineer and inventor may be only a recurrence of the same thoughts thousands of years ago.

Only recently Tesla asserted power hatched through space by radio will run the world and all its activities.

But Chinese scholars claim this is no new idea. They point back to their ancestors who some 20,000 or more years ago, flew through the air and talked over enormous distances.

The citation is taken to be a reference to airplanes and wireless Chinese civilization, 20,000 or more years ago is said to have been equal to that of today. Then according to Chinese theory, mankind slid downward for 15,000 years and now it is on its upward climb of another 15,000 years, to fall back again at the end of the cycle into barbarism.

MORE TO GO

Whether the present is the peak of this period of 30,000 years no one can tell. But Tesla declares we have still to see greater wonders in radio, and if that is so, we have still to reach the peak of the present civilization cycle.

Will we surpass the Chinese, at their height of progress?

Tesla says yes. He points to the fact that we are already flying and talking over space, but that we have still greater wonders to see. Our "civilization cycle," he points out will reach out beyond the peak of Chinese civilization.

WILL SEE BY RADIO

Besides bridging enormous distances in flight and wireless conversation, modern science will span the earth with power flashed through the air by radio. Tesla has been working on this plan ever since 1893 and now he declares it will be possible to run the world by radio.

Airplanes and trains and ships will carry no fuel," he says, "but will run by transmitted energy. With wireless power no one—explorers, travelers, campers—need be cut off from civilization and its comforts."

Not only that but we will see over great distances and of wireless energy predicts Tesla. And seeing our neighbors across the oceans will make for a united social and political world, he adds.

Books Could Not Teach Pupils About Rubber Like This Handiwork Plan Does

Miniature Plantation And Factory Built By Fourth District Pupils Help To Tell How Tires Are Made

To children in the fifth grade of the Fourth district school automobile tires, raincoats and rubber balls have taken on a new significance. These children have made a study of rubber and their knowledge of the thing on which their automobile rolls around town would put you to shame.

As with other projects, the children correlate many of their subjects to make up the entire study of rubber. Reading lessons are given over to information concerning rubber, geography is taken up from the standpoint of the place where rubber grows, spelling includes the words in the manufacture of the product and composition lessons are given on various phases of rubber growth and manufacture.

PUPILS ARE INVENTIVE

But the most interesting part of any subject are the miniatures which the children construct. In the case of the rubber plantation, there were no rubber trees with their big green leaves available, but the children used twigs from other trees and fastened paper leaves of the right color and construction onto them by means of wire. The bark of these was cut to insure the proper flow of sap into the special kind of containers. No realistic touch is omitted in the planning of such a project and of course, no rubber plantation is complete without the people who run it. Small dark dolls are used for the workers and are placed among the trees.

The climate in the countries where rubber grows is unhealthy part of the year so that the workers have only temporary houses in which to live while they work. The children have learned these are constructed with the sleeping quarters high above the ground to keep wild animals out.

FIND RAW "RUBBER"

One of these houses has been constructed by a boy and placed at the edge of the plantation. These children now know more about the process. Necessity is the mother of invention, than they did before because there were no rubber products available which showed how rubber is made by dipping huge paddles into the creamy sap of the rubber tree and then holding it over the fire. That was the only thing which the children could find that would illustrate their point about the large balls of rubber which accumulate on the paddles, so far was used.

It is very hot in the country where rubber is made and the crude manufacturing process used by the workers in South America is done right out in the open. In order to protect the workers from the sun, flat structures are made and then placed at angle from the ground to offer a shady place. Two types of these have been included in the project. What has been told you is all on the South America side of the project, which occupied only one half of the sand box in which it is placed.

LOCATE FACTORY

Of course every one knows that the crude rubber is brought out of South America on boats which go on the Amazon river and there is an Amazon river in the plan, with a sure enough boat on it. The boat leads you right to the United States side of the country, where a rubber manufacturing factory has been erected. There are also some of the products which are manufactured from rubber shown as well as the means of transportation for these manufactured articles.

It was fortunate that just while the students were working hard on their rubber plantation and factory, a commercial exhibit of rubber in various stages was sent to the Schlitz brothers drug store. This exhibit has been loaned to the children to complete their project.

MAKE BOOKLETS

Pictures of many processes of manufacture were procured from magazines by the children for their booklets in which all the written work on rubber was placed. On the covers of these booklets, the children were allowed to place either a picture or the word "Rubber." One of the most attractive and unusual cover designs was a huge tire which the child had cut from an advertisement.

One of the interesting things which the children discovered in their studies was that there is a low brush in the United States from which a sap similar to rubber can be obtained. This sap is manufactured as rubber in the United States with methods that are much more modern and efficient than those used in the southern countries. The children also studied the history of the use of rubber from earliest times down to Charles Good-year who invented the vulcanizing process. Miss Irene Simon is the teacher.

CHANCES ACCIDENT TO SAVE GIRL AUTOISTS

E. A. Walthers narrowly escaped having a serious accident on highway 15 Monday. He was returning from Freedom in his touring car and when almost within the city limits he met two girls whose automobile, a Ford, started to skid when they attempted to get back on the slippery pavement. A telephone pole prevented him from turning into the ditch and in order to avoid colliding with the Ford Mr. Walthers set his brake so suddenly that his car also started skidding and worked into the ditch. A rear fender came in contact with the telephone pole, but was only slightly damaged.

WELFARE COUNCIL TO TAKE H. S. GIFTS

Senior Auction Expected To Supply All City's Needy For Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving cheer preparations are being made by practically all the welfare organizations in the city so that the money raised from the senior auction at Appleton high school the day before Thanksgiving will be used to best advantage. While the high school students are busy working out the plans for the auction, the welfare agencies are investigating cases and making home calls so that there will be no promiscuous giving to people who are not in need.

Appleton welfare council is acting as the clearing house for this work in order to avoid duplication. Students hope to take care of the entire Thanksgiving needs of the people. More than 35 families were provided for last year. These families will be remembered again if they need help while others will be added to the list.

Every senior is on one of the committees for the auction. Plans are under way to bring in more pools from the city people to combat the pools among the students and thus raise more money.

What becomes of 30,000,000 cement sacks a year?

Practically 90 per cent of the 95,000,000 barrels of portland cement shipped last year was delivered in returnable cotton sacks.

To supply users of cement promptly, the industry must have about 200,000,000 sacks either on hand or in use.

The sack method of shipping is most convenient. There are four sacks to a barrel. Each sack contains 94 pounds of cement—a cubic foot. And a cubic foot is a handy volume in proportioning concrete mixtures.

When cement is shipped, the sacks are billed to the purchaser. When they are returned, they are bought back at the same price if they are in usable or repairable condition. This involves much work in checking, cleaning, sorting and repairing.

But in spite of the fact that every good cement sack is redeemable, 30,000,000 of the sacks shipped every year fail to come back—a loss of nearly $5,000,000 a year at present prices of new sacks.

To replace these "lost, strayed or stolen" sacks requires annually over 30,000 bales of cotton. It requires that the textile industry weave a strip of cloth 30 inches wide and 17,000 miles long. It means that 1,600 looms are kept working full time for a year.

Thousands of sacks returned to the cement mills for redemption are damaged, yet accepted for credit, if they can be repaired. This repair is done by the cement manufacturer at his own expense.

A medium sized plant shipping, say 1,000,000 barrels of cement a year, has to repair an average of 6,000 sacks per day from among those returned for credit. This keeps 6 people constantly working at rapidly operated electric sewing machines. In a million barrel a year plant, 22 people are constantly employed sorting, counting, repairing and otherwise caring for returned sacks so that they may again be used.

At the present time $30,000,000 would be a conservative estimate of the investment which the cement industry has in cotton sacks.

Sacks are one of the lesser, but nevertheless important items in the cement industry.

The Value of a Railroad

Rail and ties, bridges and buildings and land constitute the physical railroad.

The value of such property within the limits of your community may amount to tens of thousands or even hundreds of thousands of dollars, but what is the real value of the railroad?

If the tracks and structures were removed what would be the money loss to your community—in purchases by railroad employees, in trucking charges on lumber from the forests, on coal from the mines, on your local products to distant markets, as well as in the regular service enabling you to make emergency trips to any point in the country?

An established railroad with close supervision by those trained during long years in the business, is able, under favorable conditions, to benefit its patrons in reduced rates as the result of increased efficiency.

The Milwaukee Railroad, for instance, of its own volition, while under private control, steadily reduced its average hauling charge year after year until it reached the low mark in 1916—the year before the War.

These and other features invest a railroad with value immeasurably greater than the cost of the material of which it is built.

HAMLIN PINS HOPES ON FAMOUS MINNESOTA SHIFT

Gopher Play Is Pet Of Visitors Who Meet Lawrence Men For Title

Captain Kaplan, All-State Quarterback, Is Principal Fighter On Red And Grey Squad—McChesney Prepares

With but three days away from the coming game with Hamline Lawrence's principal opponent for the Midwest conference title, Coach McChesney's gridders are bending every effort to make the reception of the St. Paul footballers complete. Despite the good showing that Lawrence made in the Ripon game as a spectator saw it, Coach McChesney and Buck aren't entirely satisfied and defects are being ironed out.

The first noticeable change on the Lawrence field this week is the repositioning of the line in the back field and the line with Stoll working in the backfield practice indicates that Lawrence's "line" will be used in the role of fullback instead as an end.

The end positions will be filled by Boering and Perry. It is believed that there will be few other changes.

USE HAMLIN'S PLAYS
While Lawrence followers are wondering what sort of football Hamline is playing, Lawrence is fully aware of the tactics of their foes.

Tuesday night the freshmen team, under the captaincy of Jacobson used the Hamline plays. Although scrimmage of heavier nature was held over Wednesday, the freshmen accounted the regular with the foe's play for a short period. A muddy field slowed up the gridders somewhat.

The Minnesota shift seems to be Hamline's pet play. But the Minnesota shift isn't the only thing the Gophers like to work. Forward passes will figure a great deal. Lawrence too is concocting some new stunts and it seems it has established a precedent in the Ripon game with the use of a strong aerial attack.

Departure from the straight football tactics is welcomed by many of the Lawrence fans. It adds zest to the game from their standpoint at least.

According to the St. Paul deopsters Hamline and Lawrence are equally matched and the game is expected to decide which of the two will take the Little Eight honors though Coe isn't out of the running. Coe, however, meets Cornell next Saturday at Mt. Vernon, Ia. The tilt will be the home coming attraction and the Cornell eleven has promised the alumni.

JOEY SANGOR FACES TOUGH FOE ON MONDAY

Milwaukee—When Joey Sangor, the great Milwaukee featherweight faces Sammy Mandell at the Castle Ice Gardens, Nov. 20, he will put his smashing right hand against one of the best lefts in the business. Sangor, carrying the punch of a heavy in his right glove, has topped over nearly every opponent he has faced in the last ten months. Mandell, while not as hard a hitter as Joe can handle his left in a magic fashion, and no less an authority than Ed Smith of Chicago proclaims it one of the greatest south paws he has ever seen.

Big blocks of tickets have been sent to northern Illinois towns while reservations for seats have been received from practically every city in Wisconsin.

Michigan To Watch Him

GUARD CHRISTIANSEN, WISCONSIN

Coach John Richards of Wisconsin has such a fine array of forwards that he is often at a loss as to whom he should call upon.

One of the linemen making a strong bid for regular work is Guard Christensen, who has been showing up usually well. He is certain to get a chance to show his worth in the all important game with Michigan.

Richards is pinning his hopes of victory over Yost in his line, which is the more experienced of the two.

GIANTS WIN INDOOR BASEBALL PENNANT

Lincoln School League Reorganizes For Additional Games This Week

No sooner had the members of the Lincoln Indoor Baseball league completed its 30-game schedule last week when the players decided to reorganize for another series. New teams for a two weeks' schedule will begin playing this week, according to an announcement by an official of the league.

In the six weeks' series the Giants and Yankees finished in a tie but two deciding games played by the leaders gave the championship to the Giants.

The Giants and Yanks were scheduled to play a single championship game but it was broken up because of the opposing decisions given by the two umpires. The point of dispute was about a caught fly. The fielder evidently caught the ball just as it was about to touch the ground. In the next game the Giants won 3 to 0 and were awarded the pennant.

Following is the standings of the teams at the end of the 30 games:

City	W	L	Pct.
Olympics	5	1	.833
Rainbow Garden	4	2	.666
Hoffman Con. Co.	4	2	.666
Elk Imperials	3	3	.500

F. O. E. No. 574	2	4	.333
Arcades	2	4	.333
B. P. O. B. 337	1	5	.166

Failure of the Elks 337 to appear at the Olympic alleys for the scheduled Appleton City Bowling league match Tuesday night gave the Olympic team a three game forfeit and the lead while the Rainbow Garden and Hoffman Construction Company quit by virtue of two wins Tuesday night are tied for second place.

Nearly all teams were slightly off color compared with the scores rolled at the opening matches a week ago. The high score of the evening was tallied by Kluge of the Hoffman Construction Co who shot 230 in one of the games.

On failure of the Elk bowlers to make an appearance the Olympic ten pin knights rolled for their scores and was awarded a 148 average which is far below the scores of the Olympics.

BELOIT TO FACE LAWRENCE CASERS TWICE THIS YEAR

Art Wheeler, Former Star Here, May Not Get On Team, Is Prediction

Beloit—With a tentative schedule of 16 basketball game, Coach Tommy Mills will start his floor drill immediately following the Ripon Beloit game at Rockford. Beloit's reputation, gained when the Gold squad won 12 straight games—all those scheduled—last year, has brought in a host of other star basket ball players, and the squad that will answer the varsity call just before Thanksgiving probably will number close to 60.

O. K. STATE LIST
Six games have been approved definitely—the state conference contests—and it will be on the outcome of these games that Beloit wins or loses her claim on the 1923 state title. The games approved:

Jan. 10—Beloit vs. Carroll at Waukesha.
Jan. 26—Beloit vs. Ripon at Beloit.
Feb. 2—Beloit vs. Lawrence at Beloit.

Feb. 16—Beloit vs. Carroll at Beloit.
Feb. 23—Beloit vs. Lawrence at Appleton.
Feb. 23—Beloit vs. Ripon at Ripon.

Ten other games are pending. Northwestern university is said to have "found it necessary" to cancel the game scheduled with Beloit and there is a possibility that a game may be booked with Notre Dame, Lake Forest, Knox, Millikin, Coe, Cornell, and Carleton are others all sure to be on the Beloit schedule. Some of these schools will get home-and-home agreements.

WHO'LL MAKE IT
Of last year's four states championship team, the only man lost is Comstock at guard. McAuliffe will be available at center. "Baldy" McGaw at guard, and Captain Luffin and "Red" Connell at forwards. Last year's captain, Winkenswerder will be used either at forward or guard, and Paul Watson ought to make a guard with out much trouble.

"Art" Wheeler, two years ago all state center on the Lawrence college team, may get the surprise of his life when he tries to clinch a place on the Beloit varsity squad. Unless the Gold team is enlarged to have about an eight man membership, Beloit critics can't figure out who is going to be beaten out of his place to let Wheeler in.

A FEW MORE
And after these veterans have been mentioned, there is a gentleman named Wickham who played two years of varsity basketball with Creighton at Omaha, and is now a senior here and a Mr. Schaefer and a Mr. Walsh and a Mr. O'Donnell of Montana who are said to be "some" performers, and certain reserve performers from last year's club including George Dahlgren and Danischewski and Roscoe, and Wiegert, and high school stars of all state selection too numerous to mention.

FREBERG GRAPPLES HILL ON THURSDAY

Appleton Man Takes On Big Swede In Rockford—Hill Feels Fine

George Hill completed his training Wednesday for his wrestling match with John Freberg at Rockford, Ill., Thursday evening. The Appleton grappler left for the Illinois city on Wednesday evening, saying he was in pretty fair shape for a hard fight. He will weigh about 198 pounds when he goes on the mat for his first bout of the present season.

Appleton persons who saw Freberg grapple with Schultz here a few weeks ago believe Hill has bitten off a pretty big mouthful when he signed to meet the big Swede. Freberg showed all kinds of class against the St. Louis German. Hill probably is faster, but is not nearly as large. Rockford fans will see a worthwhile bout if both men are in condition.

HIGH RATES EMPTY HOTELS IN VIENNA

By Associated Press
Vienna—The cost of living in Austria, particularly Vienna, is now higher than in any country of Europe except Czechoslovakia. Prices generally have risen with incredible rapidity, until now hotel rates are equal to Paris with restaurant prices are above those of any city on the continent. The result is an exodus of foreigners. Hotels in which it has been impossible to secure accommodations during the last eighteen months are today 50 per cent empty, but their rates still go up. The so-called luxury trade is stagnated and the famous shops of the inner city are bare of customers. The Austrian crown is now 73 000 to the dollar.

"Well, Lord," he concluded, in his wordless way, "my girlie has gotta have a chance if I gotta go to hell for it. That's sure as shootin' Amen."

At that instant he saw Quintana. Recognition was instant and mutual. Neither man stirred. Quintana was standing beside a giant hemlock. His pack lay at his feet. Clinch had halted—always the mechanics—close to a great ironwood tree.

Probably both men knew that they could cover themselves before the other moved a muscle. Clinch's small, light eyes were blazing. Quintana's black eyes had become two stars.

"Finally," "You—dirty—skunk!" bellowed Clinch in his aggressively misreading voice. I got you now."

"Ah—h—," said Quintana, "these has happen ver' nice like I expect. Always I say myself, yet a little patience. Jose, an' one day you shall meet these fellow Clinch, who rob you. . . . I am ver' thankful to the good God—"

He had made the slightest of movements; instantly both men were behind their trees. Clinch, in the ferocious pride of woodcraft, laughed exultantly—filled the dim and spectral forest with his roar of laughter. "Quintana," he called out, "you're a-going to cash in. Savvy? You're a-going to hop off. An' first you gotta hear why. Taint for the stuff. Naw! I hooked it off'n you; you hooked it off'n me; now I got it again. That's all square. . . . No taint that grudge, you green-livered whelp of a cross-bred, stillborn slut! No! It's becuz you laid the left of your dirty little finger onto my girlie. N' now you gotta hop."

Quintana's sinister laughter was his retort. "Then," "You damfool Clinch," he said, "I got in my pocket what you rob of me. Now I kill you, and then I feel ver' well. I go home, live like some knas, yes. But you, sneered, "you shall not go home never no more. No. You shall remain in these damn woods like ver' dead old rat that is all wormy. . . . He! I got a million dollars—five million franc in my pocket. You shall learn what it cost to rob Jose Quintana! Understand?"

"You har," said Clinch contemptuously, "I got them fools in my pants pocket. . . . Quintana's derisive laugh cut him short. "I gave you the flaming jewel if you show me you got my gams in your pants pocket!" "I'll show you. Lay down your rifle so's I see the stock."

"First you, my friend Mike," said Quintana cautiously.

Clinch took his rifle by the muzzle, and showed the stock into view so that Quintana could see it without moving.

To his surprise, Quintana did the same, then, coolly stepped a pace outside the shelter of his hemlock. "You show me now," he called across the swamp.

Clinch stepped into view, dug into his pocket, and, cupping both hands displayed a glittering heap of gems. "I wanted you should know who's gottem," he said, "before you hop. It'll give you something to think over in hell."

Quintana's eyes had become slits again. Neither man stirred. Then, "So you are buzzard, eh, Clinch? You feed on dead man's pockets eh? You find Sam's some more an' you feed." He held up the morocco case emblazoned with the arms of the Grand Duchesse of Esthonia, and shook it at Clinch.

"In there is my share. . . . Not all. Ver' quick, now, I take yours, too—"

Clinch vanished and so did his rifle, and Quintana's first bullet struck the moss where the stock had rested.

"You black crow!" jeered Clinch, laughing. "I need that empty case of yours. And I'm going after it. But it's because your filthy claw touched my girlie that you gotta hop!"

Twilight lay over the phantom wood, touching with pallid tints the flooded forest.

So far only that one shot had been fired. Both men were still maneuvering, always creeping in circles and always lining some great tree for shelter.

Now, the gathering dusk was making them bolder and swifter; and twice, already, Clinch caught the shadow of a fading edge of something that vanished against the shadows too swiftly for a shot.

Now Quintana, keeping a tree in line, brushed with his lithe back a leafless moose-bush that stood swaying as he avoided it.

Instantly a stealthy hope seized him; he slipped out of his coat, spread it on the bush, set the naked branches swaying, and darted to his tree.

Waiting, he saw that the gray blot his coat made in the dusk was still moving a little—just vibrating a little bit in the twilight. He touched the bush with his rifle barrel, then crouched almost flat.

Suddenly the red crash of a rifle lit up Clinch's visage for a fraction of a second. And Quintana's bullet smashed Clinch between the eyes.

EPISODE ELEVEN The Place of Pines CHAPTER I

The last sound that Mike Clinch heard on earth was the detonation of his own rifle. Probably it was an agreeable sound to him. He lay there with a pleasant expression on his massive features. His watch had fallen out of his pocket.

Quintana shined him with an electric torch; picked up the watch. Then, holding the torch in one hand, he went through the dead man's pockets very thoroughly.

When Quintana had finished, both trays of the flat morocco case were full of jewels. And Quintana was full of wonder and suspicion.

Unluckily he looked upon the dead—upon the glittering contents of the jewel-box—but always his gaze reverted to the dead. The faintest shadow of a smile edged Clinch's lips. Quintana's lips grew graver. He said slowly, like one who does his thinking aloud:

"What is it you have done to me, 'Lami Clinch'? . . . Are there truly then two sets of precious stones?—two flaming jewels?—two gems of Erosite like there never has been in all these world except only two more?"

Or is one set false? Have I here one set of paste facsimiles? My friend, Clinch, why do you have there an' smile at me so ver' funny. . . . like you are amused? . . . I am wondering what you have done to me, my friend Clinch."

For a while he remained kneeling beside the dead. Then, "Ah, bah," he said pocketing the morocco case and getting to his feet.

He moved a little way toward the open trail, stopped, came back, stood his rifle against a tree.

For a while he was busy with his sharp Spanish clasp knife, whittling and fitting together two peered twice. A cross was the ultimate result. Then he placed Clinch's hands palm to palm upon his chest, laid the cross on his breast, and thinned the result with complacency.

Then Quintana took off his hat, "Lami Mike," he said, "you were a man! . . . Adios!"

The night had turned frosty. Quintana, wet in the knees and very tired, moved slowly, not daring to leave the trail because of sick hives.

What he had to have was a fire he realized that. Somewhere off the trail, in big timber, if possible, he must build a fire and master this deadly chill that was slowly paralyzing all power of movement.

At last he came to a place of pines, first growth giants towering into night, and looking up, saw stars, infinitely distant, where perhaps those things called souls drifted like wisps of vapor.

When the fire took, Quintana's thin dark hands had become nearly useless from cold. He could not have crooked finger to trigger.

For a long time he sat close to the blaze, slowly massaging his torpid limbs, but did not dare strip of his foot gear.

Later he ate and drank languidly, looking up at the stars, speculating as to the possible presence of Mike Clinch up there.

What a chase Clinch had led him after the flaming jewel. And now Clinch lay dead in the forest—faintly smiling. At what?

Be Consistent In Your Exercise And Diet To Have Health And Beauty

Dorothy Knapp, American's Venus, Offers A Few Helpful Suggestions To Women Who Would Be Beautiful

By Dorothy Knapp
The American Venus

A beautiful face or a beautiful figure is impossible without good health, and good health is impossible without correct habits of exercise and diet.

Our forefathers who lived in the open and didn't depend on subways and motor cars got plenty of exercise, and did not have to worry about Indian clubs, dumbbells or daily dozes.

But modern life makes no call on some of our muscles and gives them no chance to develop, so unless we take the matter in hand and exercise them sooner or later we pay the penalty of our neglect in flabby muscles, fat or undeveloped bodies and then ill health.

DOROTHY KNAPP of New York as recently adjudged the most perfectly formed woman in America at the Physical Culture show at Madison Square Garden. She won the title of The American Venus from contestants from all parts of the country. In the following, the first of two articles by Miss Knapp, she tells readers of the Post-Crescent how she attained such perfection.

MORE HARM THAN GOOD

I believe in exercise, but before any woman undertakes any strenuous program I believe she should have her self examined by a physical instructor at a gymnasium, otherwise she may do herself more harm than good.

I have two simple exercises that are a part of my daily routine which are perfectly harmless and yet which seem to me to be the best there are for internal as well as external benefit. It is to these two I attribute my health—and my figure.

For external beauty I recommend the bending exercise which stretches and reduces all the flesh about the waist and abdomen and makes the spine supple and the legs symmetrical.

It consists in throwing the arms over the head, then bending down until the finger tips touch the floor, without bending the knees. Keep the heels and toes together and come back to position after each effort.

I practice this each morning for about 10 minutes, doing it about 15 times a minute—but then I've been doing it for years. A beginner would find a slower tempo less fatiguing.

The other exercise which is excellent for all the organs of the trunk and abdomen is the twisting exercise. Keep the toes and heels together, and without changing the position of the legs bend the body from the waist in a circle, stretching as far to the back, front and sides as you can.

Swinging the arms out in front and then to the back until the finger tips meet behind the back is excellent for developing the chest or for reducing too heavy shoulders.

JUMPING AND RUNNING

Some women recommend jumping and running, but I think a woman should have medical advice before practicing them.

Swimming is my favorite exercise.

I recommend it to every beauty seeker. Work with Indian clubs and dumbbells promotes grace and dexterity.

Ten minutes' practice each day is infinitely more valuable than an hour of strenuous exercise one day, followed by six of inactivity.

Tomorrow I'll tell you about the breathing exercises I practice, and about my diet system. Then you'll know all my beauty secrets.

IF YOU ARE WELL BEHD

You know that it is better to be too conservatively dressed than to be overdressed at any social function. If you are in doubt as to what to wear it is safest to select the plainer dress.

That is, if you are in doubt as to whether to wear evening or dinner clothes, the dinner dress is the wiser choice. On the street never wear exaggerated clothes. Avoid too much jewelry and bizarre effects that will make you conspicuous.

EDUCATE CANARIES TO SING LIKE NIGHTINGALES

By Associated Press
Bremen—After ten years of experiment the year and his purposes succeeded in producing canaries with a nightingale warble. The crossbreed was attained by using nightingales as "singing masters" for young canaries, and rearing the latter entirely removed from the sound of any other bird note except the warbling of their "instructors."

The breeder's chief difficulty was at first found in the fact that normally nightingales sing only during two months of the year and his purposes required a longer interrupted period of instruction for the canaries. He was finally successful in changing the mouthing, or nonsinging period of certain nightingales so that some sang from May to July, others from June to August, and still others from August to October.

Using these birds he kept newly-hatched canaries continually within hearing of their warbling. Several generations of breeding showed that birds reared from the original students instinctively possessed the nightingale warble, and that "instructors" could be dispensed with for the offspring except for "polishing off" their singing.

INSTEAD OF EMBROIDERY

Cutwork self trimming is being used on many of the heavy wool and silk gowns instead of embroidery. It is seen frequently on coats as well as on gowns.

NEW COATS ARE FLARING

From Paris comes some smart top-coats, short and very flaring, to be worn with the long, plain skirts. Sometimes these are of very vivid colors, rose and almond green being particularly well liked.

CHEESE AND PEPPER SALAD
By Bertha E. Shapleigh
1 cream cheese or
1 cup cottage cheese
2 green peppers

WHAT PARIS SENDS US

Unless shorter dresses become the vogue, fancy stockings would seem to be a drug on the market—but they aren't. They are more popular than ever before and are frequently embroidered in gay colors. Fancy slippers, too, of brocade and light suede leather are most stylish.

½ teaspoon finely cut onion
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
1 red pepper (canned) rubbed through a sieve
1 head lettuce
French dressing
Mash cheese and if dry moisten with cream or French dressing. Add seasoning and red pepper. Wash cut a slice from top, and remove seeds from green peppers. Fill solidly with the cheese mixture, and chill. Cut in slices, and serve on lettuce with French dressing.

CREAM CHEESE DRESSING

1 cream cheese
½ teaspoon onion
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons oil
1 tablespoon vinegar
Mash cheese and remaining ingredients and beat until smooth. Serve with lettuce.

Here Are Some Hints For That Turkey Dinner

By BERTHA SHAPLEIGH

How the words "Thanksgiving Day" call to mind happy days when families gathered together, and then sad memories when perchance those days are no more!

To set apart a day at the end of harvest when the crops were in as a day of thanksgiving to God for his mercies has been a custom in all countries for centuries. It was spoken of as the Harvest Feast or Festival.

When the early colonial settlers wished to make a thank offering to God for their new country and home they chose a day in November which should be devoted to prayer and thanksgiving and called it "Thanks giving Day." Families gathered at grandmother's house, the best of the land's offerings were cooked and as the people prospered the dinner grew in proportion and tables "groaned" with the goodies.

ALWAYS TURKEY

The meat chosen for this dinner was that from the turkey, a bird which first was wild, coming from Mexico and later domesticated.

The vegetables were those grown during the summer and were ready for winter use—the onion, squash, pumpkin, turnips and potatoes.

The pumpkin has always been used for pies and when a pie is made from a good pumpkin, combined with eggs, milk and spice, no better pie can be made. The sweet potato in the south takes the place to a degree of the northern pumpkin.

THE "LAID" PUDDING

In some parts of New England a "laid" pudding was always served at the Thanksgiving dinner. It was a pudding made with layers of crackers and raisins covered with milk and thickened with eggs. Some places use the carrot as a foundation for a steamed fruit pudding.

Cranberry sauce or jelly adds color and flavor to the dinner.

The south has contributed the excellent sweet potato, such a good accompaniment to turkey, especially when cooked by a real southern cook. In New York some of the old farm ladies thought that nothing went so

Adventures Of The Twins

Flap-Doodle In Mischief

The next place Nancy and Nick came to on the Tinky Winkler Star was a great big oven, large enough for you and me and some of our friends to sleep in.

"Sh!" whispered Nancy. "Perhaps Flap Doodle, the purple fairy, is hiding inside and we can get the wand he stole from the Fairy Queen."

So they tiptoed over as softly as velvet mice and peered in. But what do you suppose? It was a meeting they beheld. A meeting of a dozen Tinky Winklers with big ears and colored a bright orange, all sitting in a circle inside the oven. "It's an outrage, I call it!" said one Tinky-Winkler, fiercely to his neighbor.

"Worse than that!" It's two out rages," said a second. "Just as soon as we got our handsome town hall built, Flap Doodle sent us a bill for taxes, as big as a bed sheet. How can we pay them? We've no money left!"

"Yes," said a third Tinky Winkler. "Ever since Flap Doodle got that new stick of his that he says is so important, he thinks he can do everything I wish we could get it."

"We'll help you," cried Nick. "We're after Flap Doodle, too. He stole the Fairy Queen's wand and we're trying to get it. Won't you please come out of the bake oven so we can talk?"

"Bake-oven! Hear the child," cried well with turkey as turnips and potatoes mashed together.

OYSTER SOUP

Along the Atlantic coast the oyster grew in great quantities, and so an oyster soup, or oysters creamed or scalloped must always appear on the Thanksgiving menu.

For table decorations a pumpkin hollowed out makes an attractive fruit dish. Fruit and autumn leaves with chrysanthemums for those who can have them, make a table quite in keeping with the season.

Nuts of all kinds for after dinner and good sweet cider to drink with bright red apples to eat made the day one to be remembered until the next year should bring another one.

a Tinky Winkler, "We're insulted!" exclaimed another. "We demand an apology!" thundered a third, and the Tinky-Winklers came tumbling out of their oven like marbles out of a bag. "Well, just look at it!" pointed Nick. "What is it then?"

All the Tinky-Winklers turned and looked. "Goodness!" they gasped. "Flap Doodle has waved his wand and changed out town hall into a bake oven. What shall we do?"

DINNER GOWNS

Red, wine, rose and the purple tones are very popular for velvet dinner frocks. They depend upon smart draperies for their trimmings.

SATIN COATS

Coats of satin, trimmed with mole-skin or caracul, show the new Medieval collars that are said to be particularly popular in London. Frequently, too, they are draped and caught up at the neckline with a buckle or ornament.

The Japanese mother begins to work on her daughter's wedding robe as soon as the child is born. Hand woven silk is embroidered in the most intricate patterns that often represent years of work. Instant Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

No Other Oats

Cook so quickly as these

Now there's an Instant Quaker Oats—the quickest-cooking oats in the world. Your grocer has it as well as the regular. Instant Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and cooks to perfection. No other style of oat flakes cooks nearly so quickly as that.

Now two things you want

Now Quaker Oats offer you two things you want. They offer a flavor which has won the world. Quaker Oats dominate wherever oat lovers live. Never was an oat dish made so delicious.

That's because we use queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flaky oats. All puny grains are discarded. We get but ten pounds of these luscious flakes from a bushel.

Now Instant Quaker offers that same super-quality, almost ready to eat. It is flaked from the same grains, but the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Now you have your choice. Regular Quaker—the kind you have always known—or Instant Quaker—the style that cooks so quickly. Get the style you prefer. But, for one or both of these reasons, insist on the Quaker brand.

Honeymooner's Abroad

Chapter 3 — In Detective Role

By Zoe Beckley

Begin Here Today

The joy of the honeymoon was a bit clouded for EDNA DURYEA when she learned that the expense of the trip to Europe was being paid by the firm which employed her husband, JOHN.

It is with a "secret and delicate" mission that he has been entrusted and Edna is chagrined to think that secrets shall be kept from her at this early stage of married life.

Go on With the Story

"Our European manager is a shrewd Continental by the name of Cousins," began Jack as he and Edna settled into the deep chairs of the ship's lounge. "When he started two years ago, he went like a house afire. Simply shoveled in business. Opened new territory every week. But for the last six months there's been a slowingup; practically a stop. He says it's general depression. But the Pureka people selling the same line as we, have been doing a land-office business in the same territory as Cousins." He stopped impressively.

"What's the answer?" asked Edna. "That—" Jack puffed out his chest magnificently, "is what the company is sending you and me abroad to find out. Now you are in possession of my Terrible Secret, wife of my life. Now that you've got it, what will you do with it?"

The waiter brought the glasses of mild old Italian wine Jack had ordered. Edna raised her glass to his, and clinked it.

"Help you solve the mystery, Mr. Herlock Sholmes!" she smiled, and drank, her brown eyes looking into Jack's over the rim.

They flirted outrageously, though they thought none saw. Then a sobering thought came to Edna.

"What will you say to Mr. Cousins?" she asked.

Jack leaned back and assumed his future role.

"Glad to meet you, Mr. Cousins. May I present my latest wife? She wants to see the sights of Europe—Italy, the Alps, Paris, London. I want her also to see one of the most important things on this old continent—the European organization of the American Electric Supplies Corporation. Take a good look at its head-and-front, Eddie!"

Edna viewed Jack's acting with the anxious air of a producer trying to visualize a forthcoming production in which he had great financial stakes.

"From what I've heard of this Cousins person," she said with an uneasy look in her eyes, "he's far from glib. We'd best not count on an easy time with him, Jack. He's on his home grounds, you know. If he has anything to hide, or to put over on you—"

"I know," broke in Jack soberly. "I've been warned. He was over to the American office last year. They had a thousand conferences and fired questions at him till they lost their breath. When he left, all we had was the impression of a delightful time—and not a darned bit of the information we were looking for! We'll be up against the same thing now. He'll try to show us Europe so well that we'll forget what we came for."

BOARD URGED TO ALTER ROOMS IN COUNTY BUILDING

Board Of Supervisors Open Annual Fall Meeting With Short Session

Leaving the weightier problems for subsequent meetings, the county board of supervisors at the opening of the November session Tuesday afternoon, did not progress beyond answering to roll call and listening to two brief addresses.

Judge Edgar V. Werner spoke to the members in behalf of the proposed changes to be made in the court rooms. The judge declared he did not wish to dictate to what extent the building should be remodeled, but asked that if the alterations of the jury room met with the board's approval, they be ordered at an early date.

The changes he said, are intended to comply with the law. Consideration for women members of juries demand that proper accommodations be installed be urged.

The board was asked to again appropriate a sum of money for the children's home society of Wisconsin as it has done in the past. The Rev. Fred C. Braxton, addressed the board in person and reminded it that any contribution to the county would be a part of a certain portion of its poor charges.

There were several new faces at the opening session. Some of the new members were temporarily taking the place of others. Among the new persons sitting with the board are Jacob Miller, in place of August Benz; Thad Ward, Kaukauna; Henry Verbeeten, in place of Joseph Doederlein; Kimberly Henry Behen, in place of H. M. Cull; Benson Greenville.

Inasmuch as no committee reports were ready, the board adjourned until 9:30 Wednesday morning.

FRESHMEN GETTING NEATNESS TRAINING

"Pick It Up" might be the slogan of a class of freshmen at the conservatory of music, who have been trained in the methods of keeping school and practice rooms in order. Every freshman music student is responsible for picking up every book, paper or misplaced article in the entire building to make the rooms look orderly and well taken care of.

A check is made in classes concerning the attitude of the freshmen toward their responsibility and it is counted toward their spirit of cooperation. Where so many students use the same practice rooms at different hours and use a comparatively small number of classrooms with different teachers, it is extremely difficult to keep the places in order.

At almost anytime you can go into a practice room or classroom at the conservatory and find the books or music piled neatly and none of the usual classroom debris outside the room to be seen. This method of keeping things straight was not devised to humiliate the freshmen, but to train them early in their responsibility toward a building in which they work and teach. It has proved remarkably successful and the students are cheerful in doing their tasks.

THINK CITY WAS LAX IN ARMISTICE OBSERVANCE

Many Appleton people have remarked about the impressive services at Madison on Armistice day in comparison with the lack of definite program here. It is reported that all activity on Capitol square was suspended and that there was not a rose on the square at 11 o'clock except the blowing whistles and ringing bells. Two minutes of silent remembrance was paid to those who made the supreme sacrifice in the World war. The leaves of the football game at Camp Randall, a military band of more than 100 pieces played the national anthem while a sailor a soldier a marine ran the flag up on the staff. It was then lowered to half mast while a bugler played taps, and it was raised to the top again. The ceremony had a marked effect upon hundreds of spectators at the game.

JUNIORS AFTER SPIRIT TROPHY

Class Party Scheduled For Dec. 8 Expected To Help "Pep" Campaign

If plans of the junior class of Appleton high school are carried out as they were arranged at a class meeting recently the class will surely win the school spirit cup. Maurice Lewis and Dorothy Adst have been elected "pep" leaders of the class and are working with a large committee to generate so much "pep" in the class that the school will not be large enough to hold it.

The date for the class party has been set for Dec. 8 and committees are at work on preparations. Both dancing and games will provide entertainment. A report at the meeting showed that payment of class dues is rapidly approaching the 100-per cent mark. Miss Elsie Mueller is faculty sponsor of the class.

The following students were appointed on committees: Posters, Beverly Murphy, chairman, Claire Ross meissel, Virginia Clements, Darrel Ayresworth "pep" John Bonini chairman, Dorothy Adst and Maurice Lewis, subchairman, Hazel Wichman, Bernice Schomisch, Dorothy Doyle, Francis Bloomer, Carl Thompson, Harlan Smith, Violet Johnson, Clement Geow, Pearl Johnson, Bessie Gabriel, Marie Voecks, Clifford McCullough, Richard Neller, Esther Schultheis, Harold Douglas, food Mildred Zschaechnner, chairman, Nettie Colvin, Dorothy Kemphert, Katherine MacLaren, Ruth Haren decoration, Richard Neller, chairman, Robin Clark, Lawrence Zwickler, Norma Burns, Grace Jabas, Orson Kranzsch, dance, Carl Engler, chairman, Lester Gurnee, Bertan Manser, Margaret Brill, Editha Berg, games Lawrence Voss, chairman, Mary Ellen Bond, Virginia Clements, Martha Bell, Howard Lock, In Harold Zuelke, Earl Zuelke.
